2015 BURGUNDY OFFER

Without beating the drum over and over, all of us here have heard the heralded report of 2015, so I will save the lengthy report for something more succinct from Decanter:

"The 2015 vintage is an extraordinary one throughout the Côte d'Or. The red wines are believed to be truly great: rich, powerful and statuesque but almost always underpinned by lively and juicy acidity. The distinctive characters of the region's diverse terroirs, which can be occluded by over-ripeness in warm years, are articulately expressed. Nor, despite its richness and amplitude, is this a facile vintage. These are wines for the long haul, with serious reserves of ripe tannins hidden behind their generous fruit: they will deserve patience – and if they shut down in bottle, they will demand it.

Some vigneronns draw comparisons with the excellent 2005s, though yields were lower in 2015 and the wines are more concentrated. Others look to 1990 for an analogy. Perhaps the last word should go to Volnay's Michel Lafarge, one of the Côte d'Or's most thoughtful and experienced observers, who draws parallels with 1929s which he tasted as a young man in his family's cellars. No other vintage in the past 60 years, he reflects, is really comparable."
